TWENTY-EIGHTH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE
MANAGING COMMITTEE OF THE AMERICAN
SCHOOL OF CLASSICAL STUDIES AT ATHENS

To the Council of the Archaeological Institute of America:

GENTLEMEN,—I have the honor to report on the affairs of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens for the year ending August 31, 1909.¹

As appears in the report of the Director, the work of the School has gone on quietly and steadily during the past year. Five of the coöperating institutions sent students, Cornell, Harvard, Johns Hopkins, Princeton, and Wellesley.

For next year the Committee on Fellowships has appointed Dr. Chester Allen Johnson of the Johns Hopkins University the Fellow of the Institute; the fellowship of the School has been awarded to Miss Alice Leslie Walker of Vassar and the University of California, and Mr. Dinsmoor has been re-appointed as Fellow in Architecture.

The Journal of Archaeology has contained several important papers which are the results of work at the School: the Cornice of the Temple of Athena Niké, by Mr. G. P. Stevens, Mr. R. B. Seager's valuable and fully illustrated report on the excavations at Mochlos, and two papers on Sculpture from Corinth, by Miss Elizabeth M. Gardiner. It seems likely that the contributions of the School to the Journal will be equally important next year.

The work on the publication of the Erechtheum goes forward slowly, much more slowly than we could wish, but the delay seems unavoidable. The plates cannot be made till the drawings have received the slight corrections which the repairs on the building have made necessary. Mr. Stevens and Mr. Hill have taken the notes for these corrections, and Mr. Stevens expects to be in Athens during the spring to make a final inspection of the temple in its present state. There is thus a good prospect that the plates for the book may soon be made. The work on the text was checked by Mr. Caskey's retirement from the School, but Dr. Elderkin is now preparing the material for the historical chapter, and Mr. Hill from a further study of the inscriptions has obtained some important results regarding the interior arrangements of the temple. Some of these will shortly be published in the Journal. Progress has thus been steady if slow.

The question whether we are to continue the excavations at Corinth in the immediate future is a very pressing one, and the situation is made particularly acute by the fact that the School cannot obtain further help toward them from the Carnegie Institution. A decision as to the future course in this matter has not yet been reached. Some money will be available for excavations, but it may be desirable that the campaign of excavation should for the present come once in two years rather than annually. In the meantime more material from the excavations at Corinth should be published in the Journal, and steps have already been taken to bring this about.

Much time has been given during the past year to the question of the enlargement of the School building at Athens, and the Trustees and the Managing Committee have appointed a special committee to take charge of the matter. Careful plans and estimates have been made, and these are now under consideration. The sum of money required for the work will probably be $10,000 or $12,000, and until this is secured, or at least subscribed, the matter must wait.

For the present year, 1909-1910, Dr. Elderkin has been appointed Secretary of the School, and Professor David M. Robinson of the Johns Hopkins is in residence as the annually appointed professor.

For the MANAGING COMMITTEE,

J. R. WHEELER, Chairman.

On the twenty-fourth of July, 1909, after a protracted illness, Mrs. Prentice, wife of Professor William Kelly Prentice, Professor in Princeton University and the annually appointed professor at the School, died at the Evangelismos Hospital in Athens. Through the earlier part of the year Mrs. Prentice had been in good health, and by her great personal charm she had brought much happiness to the family life at the School and had given dignity to its social relations. The tragedy of her death has awakened keen sorrow among all who knew her, and the deepest sympathy with the families who mourn her loss.

REPORT OF THE DIRECTOR 1908-1909

To the Managing Committee of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens:

GENTLEMEN,—I beg to submit the following report on the affairs of the School at Athens for the year 1908-09.

The formal opening of the year took place on October 1, 1908. The enrolment showed six students, five regular members and one associate member, all of whom were in Greece for the first time. The greater part of October was occupied with the usual Peloponnesian trip which Dr. Elderkin and Professor Prentice managed. At Corinth I met the party and lectured upon the excavations during two days. The trips to the north of Greece were made in small parties throughout the winter and spring, except that in April all but myself were in Delphi for a few days.

After the return from the Peloponnesus, Professor Prentice organized some exceedingly useful work for the students in the general topography of Athens, with meetings semi-weekly for the reading of Pausanias, and, on December 8, he began a valuable course of lectures on topics connected with Greek history. These were continued until April. Professor Prentice's work in topography was followed by a series of exercises in architecture, which I myself conducted, making a rather detailed study of the Propylaea and Erechtheum, and, toward the end of the year, Dr. Elderkin gave four lectures upon certain selected types of Greek vases.

Outside the School, the students have had the opportunity generously given them of hearing Professor Dörpfeld on the monuments of Athens, Professor Heberdey, on the archaic sculptures of the Acropolis, Dr. Karo on smaller antiquities, and Professor von Premerstein on inscriptions, in the National Museum. The lectures also of Professor Dörpfeld and Dr. Karo in the Argolid, at Olympia and at Delphi, have been open to our students. We have great reason to regret that Professor Heberdey's transfer to Innsbruck will put his original, stimulating, and most interesting lectures beyond our reach; and that Professor Dörpfeld will not give his peripatetic lectures in full again. To hear him on Saturday afternoons has for so long been one of the great advantages of a student's residence in Athens that it is difficult to conceive of the year's work without his lectures. We shall wait long for another lecturer who can speak on the subject of Athenian topography with the authority, lucidity, and charm of Professor Dörpfeld.

Each of the students has, apart from general work, followed out, as usual, some special line of study. The subjects chosen are as follows: Proverbs in Plato, by Mr. Arnold; on Attic Demotika, by Mr. Edwards; Human Sacrifice in Greece, by Miss Stone; on the Cult of Erechtheus, by Mr. Westervelt. The associate member of the School, Mr. Royster, gave his time chiefly to Modern Greek. Mr. Dinsmoor, Fellow in Architecture on the grant of the Carnegie Institution, has continued the investigation of the Athenian Propylaea from the point at which his predecessor, Mr. Wood, left it; and he has reached conclusions quite as important with regard to the main structure as Mr. Wood's were with regard to the western wings. Mr. Dinsmoor's work is now ready for publication. He has given a good deal of time also to the study of architectural remains at Corinth. Dr. Elderkin, acting as Secretary of the School this year and holding a fellowship, has completed his careful study of the Corinthian Fountain Glaucé, and he has carried on work relating to the development of vases. In the excavations at Corinth I have had the assistance of Mr. Edwards, Mr. Westervelt, Dr. Elderkin, and Mr. Dinsmoor.

Three well-attended open meetings were held in the course of the year, at which the following papers were read:

February 5.

The Fountain of Glaucé at Corinth,	G. W. ELDERKIN
A Town and Royal Villa of Early Christian Syria,	W. K. PRENTICE

March 5.

The Magic of Names,	W. K. PRENTICE
Excavations at Corinth in 1908,	B. H. HILL

April 3.

The Western Part of the Erechtheum,	B. H. HILL
The Gables of the Propylaea,	W. B. DINSMOOR

A brief report on the excavations at Corinth, with a plan of Old Pirene, will appear in the Year-Book of the Carnegie Institution, so I give them here but passing mention. At certain points the excavation should be carried farther. The ancient water basins of Pirene should be cleared out, and there should be some further digging at the Theatre and at the Odeum; the search, too, for the sanctuary of Athena Chalinitis should be pressed a little farther. This work would probably cost about $3000. Much time has been given during the year to the question of the needed enlargement of the building, and your Committee already has the plans which illustrate the various proposals that have been made. The special report on this matter which I made you last May makes further mention of it here unnecessary.

It is a pleasure to record that the relations of the School with its neighbors, both Greek and foreign, have continued most cordial. Within the School, Dr. Elderkin has performed his duties with a ready willingness which places me under great obligation to him, and Professor Prentice gave to his work an amount of time and energy far beyond what could fairly have been asked of him. That the social life of the School was most agreeable and the life of the household most pleasant, was due chiefly to Mrs. Prentice and to him. Mrs. Prentice's long illness, with its fatal termination on July 24, was a disaster too dreadful and tragic for words. It is a small circle in which we live here; yet in a very wide one has evidence of sorrow and sympathy been shown.

The School has had many welcome visitors during the year. Among them I may mention, Mr. A. H. Smith of the British Museum and Mrs. Smith, Mr. Ely, vice-president of the American Academy in Rome, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Abbey, Professor Baur, Professor and Mrs. Perry, Professor Louise Randolph, and Professor and Mrs. Tyler.

Respectfully submitted,

B. H. HILL, Director.

AMERICAN SCHOOL AT ATHENS

THE American School of Classical Studies at Athens was founded by the Archaeological Institute of America in 1881, and is supported by the coöperation of leading American Universities and Colleges. It is in charge of a Managing Committee, and its property is vested in an incorporated Board of Trustees.

REGULATIONS OF THE SCHOOL

THE OBJECT OF THE SCHOOL

I. The object of the School shall be to furnish to graduates of American Universities and Colleges and to other qualified students an opportunity to study Classical Literature, Art, and Antiquities in Athens, under suitable guidance; to prosecute and to aid original research in these subjects; and to coöperate with the Archaeological Institute of America, so far as it may be able, in conducting the exploration and excavation of classic sites.

THE MANAGING COMMITTEE

II. The Managing Committee shall disburse the annual income of the school, and shall have power to make such regulations for its government as it may deem proper. Each of the Universities and Colleges uniting in support of the School shall have representation on the Committee. The President of the Archaeological Institute, the Director of the School, the Chairmen of the Managing Committees of the American School of Classical Studies in Rome and of the American School for Oriental Study and Research in Palestine, and the Editor-in-Chief of the Journal of the Institute, shall be ex officio members of the Committee. The Professors of the School shall also be members of the Committee during their year of office and the year following. The Committee shall have power to add to its membership.

III. The Managing Committee shall meet annually, in New York, on the Friday before the second Saturday in May. By special vote these meetings may be held elsewhere. Special meetings may be called at any time by the Chairman. At any meeting, nine members of the Committee shall constitute a quorum for business.

IV. The officers of the Managing Committee shall be a Chairman, a Secretary, and a Treasurer. There shall be also an Executive Committee.

V. The Chairman of the Managing Committee shall be the official representative in America of the interests of the School. He shall present a Report annually to the Archaeological Institute concerning the affairs of the School.

VI. The Executive Committee shall consist of nine members. The Chairman, Secretary, and Treasurer of the Managing Committee, the President of the Archaeological Institute of America, and the Chairman of the Managing Committee of the American School of Classical Studies in Rome, shall be ex officio members of the Executive Committee; the other four members shall be chosen by the Managing Committee in the following manner: at the annual meeting in May, 1901, two members of the Managing Committee shall be chosen to serve for two years and two members to serve for one year, and at each subsequent annual meeting two members shall be chosen to serve for two years. The Chairman and Secretary of the Managing Committee shall be the Chairman and Secretary of the Executive Committee.

VII. The Managing Committee shall elect from its members as its representative an Associate Editor of the Journal of the Institute.

THE DIRECTOR AND THE PROFESSORS

VIII. The work of the School in Greece shall be under the superintendence of a Director. He shall be chosen and his salary shall be fixed by the Managing Committee. The term for which he is chosen shall be five years. He shall have charge of the School building, and shall be resident in Athens from the 1st of October to the 1st of July, with liberty to absent himself for short periods for purposes of exploration or research. He shall superintend the work of each member of the School, advising him in what direction to turn his studies, and assisting him in their prosecution. He shall have control of all excavations undertaken by the School. He shall make semi-annual Reports to the Managing Committee, in November and in May, of the work accomplished by the School.

IX. Each year the Managing Committee shall appoint from the instructors of the Universities and Colleges uniting in support of the School one or more Professors, who shall reside in Athens during the ensuing year and take part in the instruction of the School. The Committee may appoint other Professors and Instructors, as circumstances require. In case of the illness or absence of the Director, the senior Professor shall act as Director for the time being.

X. The Director and Professors shall conduct regular courses of instruction, and shall at times hold public meetings at which such students of the School as they may select, or other persons invited by them to take part, shall read papers on subjects of their study and research, or make reports on the work undertaken by them or by the School.

THE SCHOOL YEAR

XI. The School year shall extend from the first day of October to the first day of July. During this period a regular member of the School shall ordinarily reside in Athens; but permission may be granted him by the Director to travel and study for a limited time elsewhere in Greece, in Greek lands, or in Italy. Further, under exceptional circumstances, with the consent of the Director and of the Chairman of the Managing Committee, a regular member of the School may be permitted to prosecute special studies in countries other than those just named, provided such studies are supplementary to work already begun in Athens.

THE MEMBERS OF THE SCHOOL

XII. Regular members of the School shall be those who are enrolled for a full year's work as candidates for a certificate. Associate members may be admitted to the School for a shorter term, but not for a period of less than three months; they shall be subject to the same regulations and shall be admitted to the same privileges as regular members, but they shall not be required to prepare a paper nor shall they receive a certificate.

XIII. Bachelors of Arts of coöperating Universities and Colleges, and all Bachelors of Arts who have studied at any of these institutions as candidates for a higher degree, shall be admitted to membership in the School on presenting to the Chairman of the Managing Committee a satisfactory certificate from the University or College at which they have last studied, stating that they are competent to pursue courses of study at the School. Such members shall be subject to no charge for tuition. All other persons who desire to become members of the School shall make application to the Chairman of the Managing Committee, and if admitted they shall be required to pay a fee of $25 per annum for tuition and library privileges. Students occupying rooms in the School building shall pay a fee of $20 per annum for the use of furniture.

XIV. Every regular member of the School shall pursue some definite subject of study or research in Classical Literature, Art, or Antiquities, and shall present a paper embodying the results of some important part of his year's work, unless for special reasons he is excused from these obligations by the Director. His paper, if approved by the Director, shall be sent to the Committee on Publication, in accordance with the provisions of Regulation XXI. If approved by the Editorial Board of the Journal also, it shall be issued as a Paper of the School.

XV. Excavation shall not be part of the regular work of a member of the School, but any member may, at the discretion of the Director, be permitted to take part in it. All work of excavation, of investigation, or of any other kind done by any member during his connection with the School, shall be regarded as done for the School and by the School, and shall be under the supervision and control of the Director.

XVI. No communication, even of an informal nature, shall be made by any member of the School to the public press, which has not previously been submitted to the Director and authorized by him.

XVII. Every regular member of the School who has completed one or more full years of study, the results of which have been approved by the Director, shall receive a certificate stating the work accomplished by him. This certificate shall be signed by the President of the Archaeological Institute, and the Chairman and the Secretary of the Managing Committee.

XVIII. Americans resident or travelling in Greece may, at the discretion of the Director, be allowed to enjoy the privileges of the School, although not enrolled as students.

FELLOWSHIPS

XIX. The Fellowships administered by the Managing Committee shall be awarded mainly by competitive examination. The subjects on which candidates will be examined, and the places and times at which examinations will be held, shall be announced not less than six months in advance.

XX. Every holder of one of these Fellowships shall be enrolled as a regular member of the School, and shall be required to fulfil the maximum requirement of residence, to present a paper embodying the results of some important part of his year's work, and to be a candidate for a certificate.

PUBLICATIONS

XXI. All manuscripts, drawings, or photographs intended for publication in the Papers of the School shall be sent, after approval by the Director, to the Committee on Publication.

XXII. Every article sent for publication shall be written on comparatively light paper of uniform size, with a margin of at least two inches on the left of each page. The writing shall be on only one side of the leaf, and shall be clear and distinct, particularly in the quotations and references. Especial care shall be taken in writing Greek, that the printer may not confound similar letters, and the accents shall be placed strictly above the proper vowels, as in printing. All quotations and references shall be carefully verified by the author, after the article is completed, by comparison with the original sources. Failure to comply with the provisions of this regulation shall be sufficient ground for the rejection of the article.

XXIII. At least two careful squeezes of every inscription discovered by the School shall be taken as soon as possible; of these one shall be sent at once to the Editor-in-Chief of the Journal of the Institute, the other shall be deposited in the Library of the School.

FELLOWSHIPS

IN THE SCHOOL AT ATHENS

Fellowships will be awarded as follows for the year 1910-11: at the American School of Classical Studies at Athens, two in Greek Archaeology, with a stipend of $600 each, and one Fellowship in Architecture (maintained by the Carnegie Institution of Washington), with a stipend of $1000.

For the year 1910-11 the Fellowship in Architecture will be awarded without examination, but candidates will be required to submit specimens of their work as draughtsmen. Applications for this Fellowship must be made not later than February 15, 1910.

The remaining Fellowships are awarded chiefly on the basis of competitive written examinations, but other evidence of the ability and attainments of candidates will be considered. They are awarded for one year; a Fellow in Classical Archaeology, however, may, at the discretion of the Committee on Fellowships, be reappointed for a second term without an examination, on the recommendation of the Director and Professors of the School, but not more than one such reappointment will be made in any year, and no Fellowship in Classical Archaeology may be held for more than two years.

The holders of these Fellowships will be enrolled as regular members of the School, and will be required to pursue their studies, under the supervision of its Director, during the full school year. But Fellows may, with the consent of the Director, spend a limited portion of the year in residence at the School in Rome, under the supervision of its Director. In addition to his general studies, each holder of a Fellowship is required to prosecute some definite subject of special research, and, after the completion of the year, to present a paper embodying the results of his investigation. Twice in the year, namely on February 1 and July 1, each Fellow will make a report to the Chairman of the Committee on Fellowships, with regard to the use which he has made of his time. A somewhat detailed description of the progress of his researches will be required. For the prosecution of his special investigation he may obtain leave, under certain conditions, to supplement his studies at Athens by researches elsewhere than in Greece. (See Regulations XI and XX.) The Fellow must be a candidate for a certificate.

Each candidate must announce in writing his intention to offer himself for examination. This announcement must be made to the Chairman of the Committee on Fellowships (Professor H. N. Fowler, Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio), and must be in the Chairman's hands not later than February 1, 1910. The receipt of the application will be acknowledged and the candidate will receive a blank, to be filled out and returned to the Chairman by February 15, in which he will give information in regard to his studies and attainments. A copy of this blank may also be obtained at any time by application to the proper Chairman.

The examinations will be held in Athens, and at any of the universities or colleges represented on the Managing Committee of the School, on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, March 17, 18, and 19, 1910.

The subject for special study in architecture for candidates for Fellowships in Classical Archaeology is the temple of Zeus at Olympia.

The award of the Fellowships will be made, and notice sent to all candidates, as soon as practicable after the examinations are held. This notice will be mailed probably not later than May 1. The income of these Fellowships is paid in three equal instalments on August 15, January 15, and June 1.

The Fellowship examinations of 1911 will be held in March of that year under conditions similar to those which are stated above. Special inquiries on the subject of the Fellowships of the School at Athens should be addressed to Professor Harold N. Fowler, Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio.

INFORMATION FOR STUDENTS

Students who desire to apply for admission to the School at Athens should address, if in America, the Chairman of the Managing Committee; if in Europe, the Director of the School. Information with reference to the School may be obtained from either of these officers. The application should be accompanied by a statement of the preparation of the applicant.

The student should gain as great command as possible of the German, French, and Modern Greek languages before going abroad; and the summer preceding a year at the School may profitably be spent in France or Germany, working in the Museums (Paris, Berlin, Dresden, Munich) and obtaining practice in French or German conversation.

The usual port of arrival in Greece for those coming from Western Europe is Patras, eight hours by rail from Athens. To Patras the shortest sea route is from Brindisi (thirty hours, including the stop at Corfu), with four steamers weekly. Those who come from countries north of Italy will avoid the long railway journey to Brindisi by taking the weekly express steamer from Trieste. The Italian steamer from Venice is less direct.

From Marseilles there are fortnightly steamers to the Piraeus, via Naples; and from Genoa, via Naples and Catania; also weekly steamers from Catania to the Piraeus, touching at Canea in Crete.

If the student wishes to go directly from America to Italy, he will take one of the lines which have a regular express service from New York or Boston to Genoa or Naples (minimum price about $80 for first-cabin passage). Brindisi is twelve hours by rail from Naples.

For the voyage from America to Greece, direct, one may take a steamer of the Austro-Americana Line at New York for Patras (prices the same as to Naples).

The cost of living in Athens is very much what one chooses to make it; but the city is no longer among the less expensive European capitals. At the large hotels in Athens, board and lodging can be obtained for $14 per week; at small hotels and in private families, for $8 per week, and upward. A limited number of men students may have rooms, without board, in the School building at Athens.

The School library at Athens, which now contains about five thousand volumes, provides all the books that are most essential for study in Greece, and the student in travelling should encumber himself with few books.
