THIRTY-FIRST ANNUAL REPORT OF THE
MANAGING COMMITTEE OF THE AMERICAN
SCHOOL OF CLASSICAL STUDIES AT ATHENS

To the Council of the Archaeological Institute of America:

GENTLEMEN,—I have the honor to report on the affairs of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens for the year ending August 31, 1912.

The death of Professor William Watson Goodwin of Harvard, the first Director of the School, for many years the Secretary of the Trustees, and a member of the Managing Committee from its beginning, occurred on the 16th of June, 1912. Professor Goodwin's part in the establishment of the School was no less important than that of Professor Norton and of Professor White. To him fell the initial work which had to be done on Greek soil, and he performed it with the modesty and tact and wisdom which were so eminently characteristic of him. How quickly he won the respect and admiration of the Athenian community is perhaps realized only by those who were in Athens during the winter of 1882-3; but all such know how much the School owed in its first year to Professor Goodwin's high qualities of scholarship and character. Even to-day, after thirty years, the memory of his kindly personality lingers in Athens, and his name will always be cherished with affection and respect by those who care for the ideals and traditions of the School.

Some progress has been made during the year in the matter of enlarging the School building, though not as much as we hoped. Certain preparatory changes have been made in the building, and the School has received from the Hecla Iron Works and the Yale and Towne Manufacturing Co. the offer of valuable gifts—from the former a steel staircase and from the latter the hardware for doors and windows. Mr. F. H. Bacon of Boston has offered to give assistance in designing the fittings of the women's room, and has rendered help in other ways. The question of getting the privilege of free importation into Greece is an important matter, and the final settlement of this has been delayed, in spite of the friendly attitude of the Greek government; for in the present perturbed political conditions in the Levant there has been no prolonged session of the Greek Senate to deal with business of lesser moment.

The report of the Committee on publication indicates a satisfactory activity. Professor D. M. Robinson and Dr. Elderkin have contributed articles to the Journal of Archaeology which are the outgrowth of work at the School. Mr. Dinsmoor's study of the Delphian Treasuries is already in proof for the Bulletin de Correspondance hellénique, and he will shortly publish some valuable studies of architectural inscriptions in the Journal of Archaeology. In the closing number of the Journal for this year Mr. Hill will publish his study of the Older Parthenon. Professor Paton, as editor of the publication of the Erechtheum, has made good progress, and has gathered considerable new material for the history of the temple. His book has been long delayed, but the conditions under which the work for it is being done, render the delay unavoidable; the authors of the various chapters are busy men living in different parts of the world. Progress is, however, steady under Professor Paton's systematic management. The sales of Mr. R. B. Seager's Explorations in Mochlos have been fairly satisfactory, and it now looks as if a good deal of the cost of publication would be covered. The manner in which the book has been received by scholars is most gratifying to the authorities of the School.

Last February, by the courtesy of Dr. and Mrs. Frederick S. Lee, a meeting in the interest of the excavations at Corinth was held at their house in New York. Mrs. Frederick Peterson, Mrs. Bryson, and Miss Grace Arnold arranged the meeting, and its success was largely the result of their active work. About $800 was raised for the excavations. The School is under great obligation to these ladies and to Dr. and Mrs. Lee for the active interest they have shown in its work. To Mrs. J. H. Metcalf also, and Mrs. E. G. Radeke of Providence, and to Mrs. R. B. Potter of New York thanks are due for timely gifts. These will be more specifically acknowledged in the list of contributions which is published later in the general report of the School. Besides these a gift of £50 was made anonymously to the Chairman.

For some time it has been evident that the salary of the Secretary of the School should be increased and that the appointment to this office should be for more than a year. Through the generosity of Mr. James Loeb, who has promised to give $500 a year for five years, this desirable change can soon be made.

In Athens the work of the School has gone on satisfactorily, though the fear expressed in the last report that the necessary absence of the Director for part of the year might prove embarrassing, was in a manner realized. Owing, however, to the maturity and experience of most of the students, and to the energy and devotion of Professor and Mrs. Gulick and Mr. Sanborn, the Secretary, the disadvantages of his absence were felt as little as possible. The registration of students shows ten in all, six regular and four associate members, representing seven of the supporting institutions. Three trips into the country were made during the autumn, under the leadership respectively of Mr. Dinsmoor, Mr. Sanborn, and Mr. Blegen, and three trips were made to Crete by different members of the School. In the spring the School assembled at Delphi, meeting the Director there for a few days' work. Professor Gulick lectured during the winter on Greek dialects and epigraphy, and gave a series of readings. The Director, after his return in February, held a few archaeological exercises on the Acropolis.

The regular members of the School for the most part continued the work which they had already begun: Mr. Dinsmoor gave his time to his study of the Propylaea, to epigraphical work growing out of this, and to the Delphian Treasuries. Mr. Blegen, Fellow of the School, was occupied with the collection of material for his historical study of Corinth. He was also of much assistance to the Director during the latter part of the year. Miss Goldman has worked in the National Museum upon the objects found in the last season's excavations at Halae, and Miss Walker came to Athens during the winter and joined Miss Goldman for further excavation in the spring on the same site. Mr. Pharr, Fellow of the Institute, has travelled a good deal, making a considerable stay in Arcadia. He has given some attention to general archaeology and to studies in comparative mythology and temple-ritual. He has also devoted a good deal of time to a study of the development of the Koiné. Mr. Messenger, the only one of the regular members who was for the first time in Greece, occupied himself with general archaeological study. His interests have, however, been more specially literary and ecclesiastical.

Members of the School have availed themselves as usual of the privilege of attending lectures by the officers of other foreign Schools, and our thanks are again due to Dr. Karo, Dr. Walter, and Professor von Premerstein.

The Committee on Fellowships report the reappointment of Mr. Blegen as Fellow of the School, and the appointment of Mr. T. A. Buenger of the University of Minnesota and the University of Pennsylvania as Fellow of the Institute. Mr. Dinsmoor will be in residence at the School next year either as "Architect of the School" or as "Research associate" of the Carnegie Institution.

No work was done at Corinth this year, since the condition of the Director's health made it unwise for him to undertake such a task. I spent a day during the spring at the excavations, which I had not seen for six years, in company with Mr. Sanborn, and I was greatly impressed with the progress which has been made, and with the unusually interesting results which the further excavation of Pirène has yielded. The School now has funds for one or two more campaigns, and these should make it possible, so far as we can now foresee, to bring these excavations to an end.

The excavations at Halae conducted by Miss Walker and Miss Goldman have been continued this season with excellent results. The individual finds from the cemetery were more numerous and more valuable than last year. Among these are a pair of finely wrought gold ear-rings, a gold crown and a small pendant. There are also some admirable silver fibulae with engraved, conventional design, and some silver and bronze seal rings. Some interesting pottery also was discovered, including a number of excellent black-figured cylices. Some of the pottery is of local manufacture, showing the probable influence of Corinthian and of Attic black-figured ware. A number also of excellent figurines of Tanagra style were found. A trench dug on the Acropolis of the site has yielded prehistoric pottery, and a large deposit of bronze ornaments. The excavations will probably be continued in the spring of 1913.

In April, during the Congress of Orientalists, an afternoon garden party was given with the British School. This was attended by large numbers of Athenians and visiting scholars.

Professor Tarbell, Professor Lord, and Professor Paton of the Managing Committee spent some time in Athens during the year and were frequent visitors at the School, and among the many Americans whom Professor and Mrs. Gulick and the Director were able to welcome were Professor and Mrs. W. T. Brewster, Professor and Mrs. J. H. Robinson, and Professor and Mrs. Livingston Farrand of Columbia, Professor E. W. Hopkins of Yale, Professor H. C. Butler of Princeton, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Whitehouse, Mr. Allison V. Armour and Mr. Richard Norton.

I was myself able to be in Athens for two months during the spring, and have thus had the opportunity of getting an impression of the School from near at hand. There can be no question that quiet, solid work of high quality is being done. It is also very evident that the School has a scientific standing in the community among scholars that for some years it did not have and which, under the earlier conditions of archaeological study in this country, it could not have had. It is also evident that the scholars in Athens give the present Director a very considerable and deserved credit for this advance. We most earnestly hope that his recovery from his prolonged and serious illness, as yet but partial, may be continued until he can again take up work with his old vigor. In the meantime no serious student of good capacity need feel, amid all the opportunities which Athens affords, that his scholarship will suffer permanent injury, if he is forced to shift for himself a little more than usual. It is a high privilege for any young man or woman to work in such a company of young scholars as assemble at the School. If a student cannot advance in such an atmosphere, it is his own fault.

I cannot close this report without expressing in behalf of the Managing Committee a word of gratitude to Mr. Moses, the Minister of the United States, who has recently retired from office. The School is greatly indebted to him for much courtesy and kindness, and for his unfailing desire to help us in every possible way. To Professor Perry, too, who has most efficiently performed the duties of the Chairman during my absence, the hearty thanks of the Managing Committee are due.

At the opening of the coming year Professor C. P. Bill of Western Reserve University will be in charge of the School. We hope that the Director, whose health has improved, may soon be back in Athens.

For the MANAGING COMMITTEE,

J. R. WHEELER, Chairman.

AMERICAN SCHOOL AT ATHENS

1911

THE American School of Classical Studies at Athens was founded by the Archaeological Institute of America in 1891, and is supported by the coöperation of leading American Universities and Colleges. It is in charge of a Managing Committee, and its property is vested in an incorporated Board of Trustees.

REGULATIONS OF THE SCHOOL

THE OBJECT OF THE SCHOOL

I. The object of the School shall be to furnish to graduates of American Universities and Colleges and to other qualified students an opportunity to study Classical Literature, Art, and Antiquities in Athens, under suitable guidance; to prosecute and to aid original research in these subjects; and to coöperate with the Archaeological Institute of America, so far as it may be able, in conducting the exploration and excavation of classic sites.

THE MANAGING COMMITTEE

II. The Managing Committee shall disburse the annual income of the school, and shall have power to make such regulations for its government as it may deem proper. Each of the Universities and Colleges uniting in support of the School shall have representation on the Committee. The President of the Archaeological Institute, the Director of the School, the Chairmen of the Managing Committees of the American School of Classical Studies in Rome and of the American School for Oriental Study and Research in Palestine, and the Editor-in-Chief of the Journal of the Institute, shall be ex officio members of the Committee. The Professors of the School shall also be members of the Committee during their year of office and the year following. The Committee shall have power to add to its membership.

III. The Managing Committee shall meet annually, in New York, on the second Saturday in May. By special vote these meetings may be held elsewhere. Special meetings may be called at any time by the Chairman. At any meeting, nine members of the Committee shall constitute a quorum for business.

IV. The officers of the Managing Committee shall be a Chairman, a Secretary, and a Treasurer. There shall be also an Executive Committee.

V. The Chairman of the Managing Committee shall be the official representative in America of the interests of the School. He shall present a Report annually to the Archaeological Institute concerning the affairs of the School.

VI. The Executive Committee shall consist of nine members. The Chairman, Secretary, and Treasurer of the Managing Committee, the President of the Archaeological Institute of America, and the Chairman of the Managing Committee of the American School of Classical Studies in Rome, shall be ex officio members of the Executive Committee; the other four members shall be chosen by the Managing Committee in the following manner: at the annual meeting in May, 1901, two members of the Managing Committee shall be chosen to serve for two years and two members to serve for one year, and at each subsequent annual meeting two members shall be chosen to serve for two years. The Chairman and Secretary of the Managing Committee shall be the Chairman and Secretary of the Executive Committee.

VII. The Managing Committee shall elect from its members as its representative an Associate Editor of the Journal of the Institute.

THE DIRECTOR AND THE PROFESSORS

VIII. The work of the School in Greece shall be under the superintendence of a Director. He shall be chosen and his salary and the term for which he is chosen shall be fixed by the Managing Committee. He shall have charge of the School building, and shall be resident in Athens from the 1st of October to the 1st of July, with liberty to absent himself for short periods for purposes of exploration or research. He shall superintend the work of each member of the School, advising him in what direction to turn his studies, and assisting him in their prosecution. He shall have control of all excavations undertaken by the School. He shall make semi-annual Reports to the Managing Committee, in November and in May, of the work accomplished by the School.

IX. Each year the Managing Committee shall appoint from the instructors of the Universities and Colleges uniting in support of the School one or more Professors, who shall reside in Athens during the ensuing year and take part in the instruction of the School. The Committee may appoint other Professors and Instructors, as circumstances require. In case of the illness or absence of the Director, the senior Professor shall act as Director for the time being.

X. The Director and Professors shall conduct regular courses of instruction, and shall at times hold public meetings at which such students of the School as they may select, or other persons invited by them to take part, shall read papers on subjects of their study and research, or make reports on the work undertaken by them or by the School.

THE SCHOOL YEAR

XI. The School year shall extend from the first day of October to the first day of July. During this period a regular member of the School shall ordinarily reside in Athens; but permission may be granted him by the Director to travel and study for a limited time elsewhere in Greece, in Greek lands, or in Italy. Further, under exceptional circumstances, with the consent of the Director and of the Chairman of the Managing Committee, a regular member of the School may be permitted to prosecute special studies in countries other than those just named, provided such studies are supplementary to work already begun in Athens.

THE MEMBERS OF THE SCHOOL

XII. Regular members of the School shall be those who are enrolled for a full year's work as candidates for a certificate. Associate members may be admitted to the School for a shorter term, but not for a period of less than three months; they shall be subject to the same regulations and shall be admitted to the same privileges as regular members, but they shall not be required to prepare a paper nor shall they receive a certificate.

XIII. Bachelors of Arts of coöperating Universities and Colleges, and all Bachelors of Arts who have studied at any of these institutions as candidates for a higher degree, shall be admitted to membership in the School on presenting to the Chairman of the Managing Committee a satisfactory certificate from the University or College at which they have last studied, stating that they are competent to pursue courses of study at the School. Such members shall be subject to no charge for tuition. All other persons who desire to become members of the School shall make application to the Chairman of the Managing Committee, and if admitted they shall be required to pay a fee of $25 per annum for tuition and library privileges. Students occupying rooms in the School building shall pay a fee of $20 per annum for the use of furniture.

XIV. Every regular member of the School shall pursue some definite subject of study or research in Classical Literature, Art, or Antiquities, and shall present a paper embodying the results of some important part of his year's work, unless for special reasons he is excused from these obligations by the Director. His paper, if approved by the Director, shall be sent to the Committee on Publication, in accordance with the provisions of Regulation XXI. If approved by the Editorial Board of the Journal also, it shall be issued as a Paper of the School.

XV. Excavation shall not be part of the regular work of a member of the School, but any member may, at the discretion of the Director, be permitted to take part in it. All work of excavation, of investigation, or of any other kind done by any member during his connection with the School, shall be regarded as done for the School and by the School, and shall be under the supervision and control of the Director.

XVI. No communication, even of an informal nature, shall be made by any member of the School to the public press, which has not previously been submitted to the Director and authorized by him.

XVII. Every regular member of the School who has completed one or more full years of study, the results of which have been approved by the Director, shall receive a certificate stating the work accomplished by him. This certificate shall be signed by the President of the Archaeological Institute, and the Chairman and the Secretary of the Managing Committee.

XVIII. Americans resident or travelling in Greece may, at the discretion of the Director, be allowed to enjoy the privileges of the School, although not enrolled as students.

FELLOWSHIPS

XIX. The Fellowships administered by the Managing Committee shall be awarded mainly by competitive examination. The subjects on which candidates will be examined, and the places and times at which examinations will be held, shall be announced not less than six months in advance.

XX. Every holder of one of these Fellowships shall be enrolled as a regular member of the School, and shall be required to fulfil the maximum requirement of residence, to present a paper embodying the results of some important part of his year's work, and to be a candidate for a certificate.

PUBLICATIONS

XXI. All manuscripts, drawings, or photographs intended for publication in the Papers of the School shall be sent, after approval by the Director, to the Committee on Publication.

XXII. Every article sent for publication shall be written on comparatively light paper of uniform size, with a margin of at least two inches on the left of each page. The writing shall be on only one side of the leaf, and shall be clear and distinct, particularly in the quotations and references. Especial care shall be taken in writing Greek, that the printer may not confound similar letters, and the accents shall be placed strictly above the proper vowels, as in printing. All quotations and references shall be carefully verified by the author, after the article is completed, by comparison with the original sources. Failure to comply with the provisions of this regulation shall be sufficient ground for the rejection of the article.

XXIII. At least two careful squeezes of every inscription discovered by the School shall be taken as soon as possible; of these one shall be sent at once to the Editor-in-Chief of the Journal of the Institute, the other shall be deposited in the Library of the School.

IN THE SCHOOL AT ATHENS

Two Fellowships in Greek Archaeology will be awarded for the year 1913-1914, at the American School of Classical Studies at Athens, one with a stipend of $600, and one with a stipend of $800.

The Fellowships in Archaeology are awarded chiefly on the basis of competitive written examinations, but other evidence of the ability and attainments of candidates will be considered. They are awarded for one year; a Fellow in Classical Archaeology, however, may, at the discretion of the Committee on Fellowships, be reappointed for a second term without an examination, on the recommendation of the Director and Professors of the School, but not more than one such reappointment will be made in any year, and no Fellowship in Classical Archaeology may be held for more than two years.

The holders of these Fellowships will be enrolled as regular members of the School, and will be required to pursue their studies, under the supervision of its Director, during the full school year. But Fellows may, with the consent of the Director, spend a limited portion of the year in residence at the School in Rome, under the supervision of its Director. In addition to his general studies, each holder of a Fellowship is required to prosecute some definite subject of special research, and, after the completion of the year, to present a paper embodying the results of his investigation. Twice in the year, namely on February 1 and July 1, each Fellow will make a report to the Chairman of the Committee on Fellowships, with regard to the use which he has made of his time. A somewhat detailed description of the progress of his researches will be required. For the prosecution of his special investigation he may obtain leave, under certain conditions, to supplement his studies at Athens by researches elsewhere than in Greece. (See Regulations XI and XX.)

Each candidate must announce in writing his intention to offer himself for examination. This announcement must be made to the Chairman of the Committee on Fellowships (Professor H. N. Fowler, Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio), and must be in the Chairman's hands not later than February 1, 1913. The receipt of the application will be acknowledged and the candidate will receive a blank, to be filled out and returned to the Chairman by February 15, in which he will give information in regard to his studies and attainments. A copy of this blank may also be obtained at any time by application to the proper Chairman.

The examinations will be held in Athens, and at any of the universities or colleges represented on the Managing Committee of the School, on March 13-15, 1913.

The award of the Fellowships will be made, and notice sent to all candidates, as soon as practicable after the examinations are held. This notice will be mailed probably not later than May 1. The income of these Fellowships is paid in four equal instalments on September 15, December 15, March 15, and June 1.

The Fellowship examinations of 1914 will be held in March of that year under conditions similar to those which are stated above. Special inquiries on the subject of the Fellowships of the School at Athens should be addressed to Professor Harold N. Fowler, Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio.

INFORMATION FOR STUDENTS

Students who desire to apply for admission to the School at Athens should address, if in America, the Chairman of the Managing Committee; if in Europe, the Director of the School. Information with reference to the School may be obtained from either of these officers. The application should be accompanied by a statement of the preparation of the applicant.

The student should gain as great command as possible of the German, French, and Modern Greek languages before going abroad; and the summer preceding a year at the School may profitably be spent in France or Germany, working in the Museums (Paris, Berlin, Dresden, Munich) and obtaining practice in French or German conversation.

The usual port of arrival in Greece for those coming from Western Europe is Patras, eight hours by rail from Athens. To Patras the shortest sea route is from Brindisi (thirty hours, including the stop at Corfu), with four steamers weekly. Those who come from countries north of Italy will avoid the long railway journey to Brindisi by taking the weekly express steamer from Trieste. The Italian steamer from Venice is less direct.

From Marseilles there are fortnightly steamers to the Piraeus, via Naples; and from Genoa, via Naples and Catania; also weekly steamers from Catania to the Piraeus, touching at Canea in Crete.

If the student wishes to go directly from America to Italy, he will take one of the lines which have a regular express service from New York or Boston to Genoa or Naples (minimum price about $80 for first-cabin passage). Brindisi is twelve hours by rail from Naples.

For the voyage from America to Greece, direct, one may take a steamer of the Austro-Americana Line at New York for Patras (prices the same as to Naples).

The cost of living in Athens is very much what one chooses to make it; but the city is no longer among the less expensive European capitals. At the large hotels in Athens, board and lodging can be obtained for $14 per week; at small hotels and in private families, for $8 per week, and upward. A limited number of men students may have rooms, without board, in the School building at Athens.

The School library at Athens, which now contains about five thousand volumes, provides all the books that are most essential for study in Greece, and the student in travelling should encumber himself with few books.
