for 175

So we get down to 58 BC with generally well established names. Some of these known to only 1 or 2 exs. So there may be more, but yet unrecognized, among of the late period.

Especially in this separate sheet, but also in annotations on A and really come from Athens. It is remarkable that lots more C^E come from Agathon than C' (partly later).

Early- and pre- Perg. dep. Ph. ep. 5 in MSBF

I have examined this situation this a.m., entering ^{in the column} on period lists made 12.IX.68, Periods B through I. I entered from the MSBF Phos. typed list of 10.V.55 with later entries.

I find that in Periods D through I, in most years there are several, ^{usually from 1} up to 6; exceptionally, the ep. $\Theta\epsilon\alpha\sigma\iota\delta\alpha\mu\omicron\varsigma$ (in H) dates 10. (Now ^{other} about 6.)

Of Period C, ^{1 exp. each} ~~roughly~~ exists of 3 names
 " " C', " " " " " 2 " ^{on} ^{doublet}
 " " B, there are no exps in the MSBF,

[^{7.XI.73} However, this just seems to reflect Agnes - which Athens - as a whole, - is not peculiar to the deposit, does not date the start of its fall.]

(For Period J, no. in MSBF has been entered beside the entry for no. in Perg-deposit, in list in Perg. folder.)

For HAT Group B, and the coins at Koroni, it seems they cannot date later than as above, because we know the terms. [ⓐ] They might well date a little earlier, as hardly any account has been made of reported names.

The rims described as "rolled²" are of the more developed profile, i.e. smaller, while those just called "rolled" are of the heavy early shape.

The eponyms in this list (ΑΡΙΣΤΑΝΑΞ, ΕΠΙΧΑΡΜΟΞ, ΙΞ[ΟΔΟ]ΤΟΞ, ~~ΕΠΙΧΑΡΜΟΞ~~, ΤΙΜΟΚΑΗΣ, and ΤΙΜΟΣΤΡΑΤΟΞ are all listed in early Rhodian period C (or (C)), and none in C-plus, the latest of C, just before the naming of the month. So, first quarter of 3rd ?

Must be noted that recording from this lot was not necessarily complete, it was not thought of as a group (as the ΑΠΟΘΕΤΗΣ was) but I was just salvaging pairs and important large fragments of early Rhodian. Must try to find out what else was with these, for instance non-Rhodian.

It would be good to check also that all the pieces assembled here do belong together, including those of ΑΕΙΟΞ and ΑΡΙΣΤΟΚΑΗΣ with rim of shape which became normal later.

Notes on the grouping of names within this list

The definition of the groups of names labelled by the letters to the right in our list, and the dates proposed for each group, are as follows:

A. ¹²Garrison commanders, changing three times a year. Between 331 and 323 B.C.

B. Priest-eponyms, pre-month, not named in button types. After 323 B.C., and (C). Pre-month eponyms, not so far known as priests, who are known in buttons.

Ca. first quarter of 3rd B.C.

C. Priest-eponyms, pre-month, who are known in buttons. Ca. first quarter of 3rd B.C.

D. Priests (nearly all are so known) of a period when months are named by some fabricants but not by all; all known in button types. Ca. 275-268 B.C.

(of IEPOTEAHZ)

E. Eponyms named on jars, on which the month is in a separate stamp, apparently as a new feature. ^{of 4 eponyms} Two of these are in Group D also; two more are added. ^{Button types.} To ca.

266 B.C.

F. Eponyms close in date to D and E eponyms, but in all known cases (i.e. estab all pairs) fabricants name months in their terms; here are the latest eponyms named in true button types. Ca. 265-258 B.C.

G. Eponyms in semi-buttons, see appendix to list. 257-252 B.C. Problem here, because apparently no months named.

Then: ⁺ type of Beidexos, bracketing (C, C) D, E, F, G

The foregoing groups have been sorted out from some 78 names that have been assembled as those of eponyms named on early Rhodian amphoras. They have been collected as appearing on handles or whole jars of early shape, and/or in stamps of early style, and/or as having connections (chiefly by established eponym-fabricant other pairs) with names that seem to be early. At the basis of dating of shapes and styles is a certain amount of context evidence.

We make much use of the appearance of many names in the distinctive button types of IEPOTEAHΣ. This series at its late end overlaps the beginning of the months, and some of its late names are individually dated by context in the early 3rd century B.C.

At the early end, jars and large fragments show the characteristic tall vertical band rim of one of the early Rhodian shapes. The names are nearly always without prepositions in button types, but nearly all of them can be identified with appropriately dated ~~explicit~~ explicit eponyms of these names, i.e. persons named in other types ^{of other fabricants,} with the preposition. Of ^{button names} these never known with the preposition, an obvious fabricant is IEPOTEAHΣ, ~~known~~ named in about ~~th~~ half the button stamps on record names in the semi-buttons would by other connections be placed a little later than those in the regular buttons; it is peculiar but, as it now begins to appear, not without parallel if the month was not named at all on the jars from which they come.

(cf. Hesperia 1963, p.329, latter part of note 20). In addition, the following are

ⁱⁿ Presence ^{or} absence from button types permits us to sort the early eponyms en gros. Among the pre-button names, another criterion helps to make a chronological division, and that is the existence, for some names, of types in which the eponym is called IEPEYZ. In stamps on jars of the earliest shapes, there are no persons named who are known in any Rhodian types with the title IEPEYZ. Many Rhodian stamp eponyms of later times can be identified with good probability with particular priests of Halios, i.e. with official eponyms of the Rhodian state. But it appears that the earliest Rhodian stamp eponyms were not priests at all. At present we may take it that they were commanders of the garrison placed in Rhodes by Alexander in 331 B.C. On analogy with the later phrourarchoi in Knidos (first half of 2nd B.C.) and with the phrourarchoi in Priene, we suppose that these were changed 3 times a year (rather than once a year as eponymous officials normally are); and we have identified so far about ²³~~24~~ terms for a period of uncertain length between 331 and 323 B.C. How long the garrison stayed does not seem to be known, nor can we be sure the system was started immediately. ^{in 331,} From the other point of view, the list of stamp eponyms attributed to this period is somewhat fluid, since the jars of ION show us that the preposition is not used in the earliest stamps (as well as being sometimes missing in later times), so that eponyms emerge from our fabricant list, when whole jars or large fragments with both stamps are found; the list of ^{earliest Rhodian eponyms} ~~A~~ may lose also if a type turns up, ^{newly found or newly restored,} that ^{newly} associates a particular name with the title IEPEYZ or with the series of IEPOTEAHZ. ^{to Rhodian state began to be named directly to garrison left.} Nor can we be sure that eponymous magistrates. Eponyms now assigned to this first group are marked A in the typed list. Several of them appear in stamps on jars of the earliest Rhodian shapes; and all eponym names known on such early jars are in Group A. Within this period some development is noticeable, and for the first set ^{- jars of 1st and contemporary -} we now seem to have good context in the Katzev wreck (pottery, and a coin which may be one of Alexander).

Note in connection with dating the A group, that there are here a few eponyms in -HΣ who ~~sometimes~~ sometimes appear in stamps in the earlier, or in a transitional (?) form of the genitive case, in particular ΔΙΟΝΕΙΟΗΣ, of whom the genitive is sometimes given -ΕΥΣ ~~xxx~~, sometimes -ΟΥΣ, sometimes -ΕΟΣ; the same may be true of ΔΑΜΟΣΘΕΝΗΣ, but the readings are less sure. An ending -ΕΟΥΣ appears in a type of naming ΕΥΚΑΗΣ on handles which may be of Period I A (cf. SS 6567 and SS 10151); however the same ending is given to this name on the (Soleil) jar of ΔΑΜΟΝΙΚΟΣ, which certainly names the later eponym ΕΥΚΑΗΣ (perhaps the grandson of the earlier one). This criterion can do the less for us in that names in -HΣ are a minority of Group A, and many do not show a complete genitive (they are abbreviated, or are in the nominative). In -ΕΥΣ or -ΕΥ(Σ) are ΘΕΥΦΑΝΗΣ (ΕΥΦΑΝΗΣ ?) and ΙΛΙΟΚΑΗΣ; the latter anyhow seems to be late in A, by his connections. late in A

More checking is needed, but it seems that the old form of the -HΣ genitive does not occur in any of the groups^s save A, and that it is there in transition to the later_{normal} form. For a discussion of ~~the~~ various estimates of the precise date of the change, in various centers in Rhodes, see Morricone, "I Sacerdoti di Halios," Annuario, N.S. XI-XIII, 1949-51, pp.367-8. Inscriptions indicate the new forms began in the latter 4th century both in Lindos and in Kamiros; a period of transition may have persisted into the early 3rd century (Blinkenberg on Lindos evidence).

Group B is composed of 11 names which seem to be those of the earliest priest-eponyms named on Rhodian amphoras, those not named in the button types of IEΠOTEAHΣ. They are, for the most part, a group close-knit by name connections. In proposing a date for the group, we must take into account Morricone's inscription presented in the above-cited publication. The names in our group do not correspond with any series in the inscription. If M.'s proposed dates are right, then ^{Plus} Group B as a whole must postdate 300 B.C. The precise dating of his second column is actually ^{not however} firm, see his p.367; it seems it might be moved up say 12 or 15 years, (keeping to tribal cycles).

Although there may have been one or more gaps ⁱⁿ during the issue of stamped amphoras in Rhodes during the period of Group A, there probably was not one immediately before Group B, since the products of several of the fabricants - BOIEKOΣ, ΘEYAOTOΣ, and especially EYΦCQN - show they worked in both A and B.

The 11 eponyms of ^{Ph.} ~~Rex~~ Group B include the 3 from Koroni, APPIOΣ, ANTIAEQN, and XPYEOETPATOC. The activity of the fabricant APHEIKAHΣ overlaps Groups B and C. C, and those not so known, C'. The distinction is not necessarily significant since it could of course be an accident of preservation of some of these ~~un~~-numerous types; but in fact as the division has been made, almost all the numerous 2-name types of ~~the~~ AEIOZ are in C. Later, C and C' can not be separated in date - see below on types of Ar. Sappas.

Group D assembles eponyms with whom some fabricants are known to name the month but established pairs inform us that the practice is not yet general. E adds 2 more eponyms as shortly after months began to be named, since they are in separate stamps; note another 2 in ~~D~~ ^E are also in D. Name-connections and other evidence closely associate the eponyms of F with those of D-E, and these finish the eponyms known in true button types. We cannot yet be sure of the relative dates of many of the eponyms of D - F, but note that the fabricants ΔΑΜΟΣΘΕΝΗΣ, ΖΗΝΩΝ with monogram, and ΦΙΛΙΟΣ ~~example~~ overlap Groups C and D, suggesting relative earliness of eponyms grouped under D; and the various devices in the circular types of ΑΡΙΣΤΟΦΑΝΗΣ combine Αρπίδαρος (C) Νίκων (C) Καλλικράτης (D-E) Ευφρονας (D-E) two eponyms of C (known in types with a rosette), two eponyms of D-E (with a star), and 3 eponyms of F (with a cornucopia). (Αρπίδας, Καλλικράτης, Ευφρονας)

6.8.73

Further reason for separating C & C' : in Athens, there are distinctly more of C (names known with title) than of C' (names not so known).

Try placing first in sequence, all C' except the 2 C' + (names known with title) ^{just} Perhaps there are, only by chance, not known with title. (Sappas & Ευφρονας)

Still 6.8.73
- but I don't not work, since the title appears already in B.

In the course of making up a commentary on lists of date groups A - F, and then G, I perceived that it would be easy and desirable to make a series of later groups that would be seen to follow A - G and then one another. G includes the apparently latest types related to buttons, the semi-buttons in which there is an incuse margin in the impression but no central dot-in-incuse as in the common button types; these add 5 names of persons known as eponyms in other types though without the preposition in these, as is usual in buttons.

See pencil list of 10.IX.68, "assembling periods, counting years." After G, we have H, the remainder of eponyms in types of the fabricant ΘΕΥΔΡΟΣ, who puts the symbol for Helios in his eponym types. These bring us down a further 10 years. These types of ΘΕΥΔΡΟΣ overlap the buttons of ΙΕΡΟΤΕΛΗΣ to a great extent i.e. through Groups D-G; but of the 26 or more eponyms in Groups C and C', only 4 are named with the Helios symbol: ΑΡΙΣΤΕΥΣ and ΔΑΗΜΩΝ of C' and ΘΕΥΔΡΟΣ and ΝΙΚΩΝ of C; the fact that these names ^{come from} ~~are in~~ both C and C' seems to establish the fact that there is no chronological distinction between C and C'. Presumably these names should be among the latest pre-month eponyms.

Group I (letter)
 rounds up the last names which had been assigned to Period II, those not already listed in D - H. Only 3 names left for Group I.

Group J includes all names of eponyms on handles in the MSBF save those already listed in the earlier groups. These eponyms occur also in the Pergamon deposit (which we have relisted). If secondary stamps of the normal sort began in 188 with the

Copy of list that belongs here is out of place (just) (i.e. I had it earlier today)

See copy in PERG. folder IT lacks the note on no. 1273 (7) ~~KT 1273?~~ Kindan's early known list with deposit but surely not belonging Rhodian occupation of the mainland, then the dates of the 25 names in J should be about 207 - 183 B.C., since they ~~overlap~~ include 5 in whose terms sec. st. are known.

~~Peri~~ Group K is made up of the 7 eponyms named in the Pergamon deposit but not in the MSBF. Secondary stamps are sometimes impressed with each of these 7 names.

AA has now listed the rest of the names in the typed eponym list of 3.V.65, by the periods to which they had been assigned, job done 16.IX.68. Remains to study the whole series, and see what becomes clear as to chronology.

Note in general: there are not quite enough names to fill all the supposed slots. However:

- a) we do not know just when the jars began to be stamped
- b) numerous names in early stamps may turn out to be those of eponyms although not mentioned with the preposition (7 Period A and also later - 5 names in Britain)
- c) we do not know what gaps there may have been in the sequence, i.e. years during which jars were not stamped
- d) we have been very conservative in identifying homonyms, and no doubt there are more. Alexandria notes on eponyms are to be studied further.

The later eponyms can be put into some groups by fabricant styles, e.g. of ΑΡΙΣΤΟΒΟΥΛΟΣ, of ΕΥΦΡΑΝΩΡ in circular types with Helios head, etc., etc.

Archaeology is no longer much of an amateur field, and it is certainly very hard to get

Now more inclined to think they were repeats.
 Have not listed them twice in period lists.
